

Series 2

Sensitivity Issues

[00:00:00] Sarah: In this second series of the Portal Podcast, linking research and practice for social work, we've got a range of guests joining us to talk about domestic abuse. Because of the nature of the topics that we explore with them, we explore some really difficult and really sensitive issues, and we wanted to be clear with our listeners about the content that's going to come up because it could be quite difficult to listen to at points.

[00:00:26] Lesley: Yes, definitely. We've just started recording and we're quite mindful of how emotional we feel about just listening and talking to some of our guests. So we just want to make sure you're aware that obviously with the nature of topics like this that they could be difficult, they could raise some challenges. So obviously we'll have some links in the show notes to direct people to if they have been affected, but just bearing it in mind that we're talking about domestic abuse, so we will be talking about some of the examples of what that might look like for some people.

[00:00:59] Lesley: Thank you very much.
